- 1. In 1890, it first housed a president, then generations of family residents.
2007 restored it to glory,
and now hospitality is part of its story
- 2. Bequeathed in an Imperial Act,
Land was given, a beautiful tract
With views of falls and a stream
To remember the miners of seams.
(Our Cryptid is found at the top of this ground)
- 3. A room with no walls
A star with no sky
You're getting quite close to a plane that can't fly
Within Striking distance
It's not even a hike
Even closer if you rode
And just parked your bike.
- 4. Put your right foot in, do the limbo, shoot the duck.
If you really love wheels, they can sell you some trucks.
And some t-shirts and mugs, or some hoodies and signs
All printed for you where the cryptid's eyes shine.
- 5. A place to sit with joe
A place to meet with Nick
An outdoor seat for Robbie Made of wood, between buildings of brick
- 6. Still with its black burden to bear,
It's on track, but going nowhere.
Once forced to work underground,
Now it says, "Welcome to Town."
- 7. Two candy canes
turned upside down,
Spell the name of this shop,
in the center of town
- 8. Registered for its history,
It's now part of our mystery
A midpoint for traveling guests,
On the trail going east or west
- 9. The worms crawl in
The worms crawl out
They use their cards
And they never shout
